

Divorce Lawyer in Cambridge

Divorce Lawyer in Cambridge - Our technology litigators are knowledgeable in an assortment of situations and usually advises users and developers in both the public and private sectors. We specialize in structuring, drafting, negotiating, and implementing information technology agreements along with providing recommendation regarding intellectual property law, corporate law, and various related issues. Our client base is varied, ranging from entrepreneurial, small start-ups to sectors within the government.

In order to provide our clients with the best possible assistance, our team is full integrated with several experts of our company in an array of different practice fields. This allows us to offer specialized legal recommendation in many fields which is relevant to our technology clients.

Our legal professionals are knowledgeable and experienced with specialized industry expertise.